Good Trade Evaluation (Session 28)

Selected trade: Trade C, a good trade that made a loss

Field	Response
Asset	BTCUSD
Trade Date	Week 8 practice day
Trading Strategy Used	Combined Strategy
Trade Outcome	Loss: -1,200 (-1.81%)
Entry Price	66,400

Exit Price	65,200 (the planned stop level)
Was the Trading Plan Followed?	Yes
Was the Trade Aligned with the Strategy?	Yes
Why Was the Trade Entered?	The market was in an uptrend with higher highs and higher lows. Price pulled back to support near the 50 SMA. The RSI was 61, above 50 and not overbought. A bullish candle closed at the zone. All five factors of the Combined Strategy agreed.
What Was Done Well?	I waited for the confirmation candle instead of entering when price first touched the zone. I wrote my entry reason in the journal before entering. I exited at the planned level without hesitation.
What Made This a Good-Quality Trade?	It had a clear plan, a valid entry reason, strategy alignment, proper confirmation, a disciplined exit, a journal entry, and no impulsive decision. The market then moved against the position, which the plan had allowed for by setting a stop.
Key Learning	A loss does not make a trade bad. I should repeat the habit of waiting until all five factors agree, and I should judge this trade by its process.
